

CLEVELAND UNMASKED.

The order issued by President Cleveland to restore the battle flags of the Confederacy captured by Union soldiers in the war, more completely unmasks President Cleveland than any prior act. It was a fitting sequel to his vetoes of pension bills, and shows where his heart really lies.

He carefully avoided alluding to the "confederacy," but speaks of the rebel forces as "State volunteers," when he ought to know perfectly well that at the time those flags were captured there were no "States" upholding the flag of treason; they had forfeited all claims to be called States.

It is not strange that the Grand Army of the Republic, composed of men who had sacrificed blood, limbs and robust constitutions in capturing those flags, should have made a loud protest against such an act on the part of the Chief Executive. They recognized it as a bid for Southern popularity and nothing else, and in making such a bid he surrendered the respect of every loyal citizen of the North.

Worse still was his cowardly retreat from his position next day when he saw he had shown his hand too broadly. He rescinded the order and showed that his boasted backbone was gone.

When he made the order he lost the respect of the North, and when he rescinded it he maddened the South. He has completely fallen between two stools.

There is also another individual who has also received his quietus in this same affair. When the army officers were protesting against Cleveland's first outrageous order Sherman was called on to speak. He dare not express himself either way on the subject, and asked to be excused. He is a man who likes to carry water on both shoulders and avoid the chance of spilling any.

Good News for the Frankel Creditors.

We understand from a pretty fair and pretty direct source that the Frankels will soon make an effort to settle with their creditors. The basis of settlement, according to our best information, will be in the neighborhood of twenty-five cents on the dollar. This percentage will bring into the pockets of Storey county creditors alone about $200,000, which sum, we believe, is far in excess of the sum actually paid to the Frankels for the purchase of stock.

At various times during the progress of the criminal cases against Sol. Frankel rumors were rife that the creditors' committee were offering fairer terms of settlement than the above even. If the Frankels, in the full knowledge of their condition on the second of December last, had represented to their creditors their exact financial standing, there is hardly a question now in the minds of our people but that they would have effected a settlement upon a basis that would have carried with it good feeling and they would have been enabled to continue business in this community. Their paper here would now be worth nearly its face. The stock market would have been maintained better and Storey county would have been $100,000,000 richer.—Va. Report.

—Some years ago Henry Seibert left $60,000 to be spent in the scientific investigation of spiritualism. The report of the commission has been made and it states that clever slight of hand performers have duplicated everything done by spiritualists. The report ends as follows: "In conclusion we beg to express our regret that thus far we have not been cheered on in our investigation by the discovery of a single novel fact."

—A Sacramento gentleman said that he attended a ball a few nights ago at Puente, near Los Angeles, and while waltzing with a young lady she sold him two town lots, which she assured him were charming bits of property and cheap. One of the lots was under water and the other ten miles from nowhere.

—A Baker City paper says the time has come when drunks must take a back seat. Over there they always have a front seat—in front of some saloon.
